

Outlook

THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND FACULTY AND STAFF WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

Volume 19 • Number 16 • June 10, 2003

New BSOS
Dean
Announced

Page 4

University System Taps BSOS Dean

Chancellor William E. Kirwan has announced that Irwin L. Goldstein, dean of the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences, will be the next vice chancellor for academic affairs for the University System of Maryland, effective November 1. Goldstein will retire as dean on June 30.

In announcing his decision, the chancellor noted that Goldstein "is an exceptional academic administrator with a special talent for facilitation and promoting collaboration."

"President Dan Mote and I extend our heartfelt gratitude to Irv for his 37 years of dedicated and distinguished service to the university and congratulate him on his new appointment," said William Destler, senior vice president for academic affairs and provost. "The outstanding wisdom and leadership he demonstrated as dean of BSOS will serve him well as vice chancellor."

In related news, Robert Hampton, associate provost for academic affairs and dean for undergraduate studies, has been appointed the next president of York College, part of the City University of New York. Hampton has been with the campus for 10 years.

Young Adults Not Sure of Adulthood

Modern attitudes concerning work and sexuality contribute to new thoughts about adulthood, research associate professor Jeffrey Arnett said.

Arnett, a visiting professor in the College of Education's Department of Human Development, has examined "emerging adulthood" for the past 10 years. He focuses on individuals from age 18 to 29, usually 18 to 25, and their thoughts about the meaning of adulthood.

This is a "fascinating group" to analyze, Arnett said, adding that he'd like to do this type of analysis for a while.

Arnett has examined college students, including some whom he has taught, as well as those that are not in college. He discovered that his subjects do not usually give a "yes or no" response when asked if they consider themselves to be

Faculty, Staff Commended for Efforts

PHOTO BY CYNTHIA MITCHEL

President's Commission on Ethnic Minority Issues awardees (l to r): ARHU Senior Academic Advisor Paula Nadler; Professor S. James Gates; graduate student Marie Ting; Ed Saunders, husband of award recipient Delores Saunders; Professor Ana Patricia Rodriguez; ARHU Academic Advisor Thomas Moore; ARHU graduate assistant Ashley Ho; ARHU Program Manager Jessica White; ARHU Office of Student Affairs Director Audran Ward; ARHU Senior Academic Advisor Jennifer Garcia; Director of Stamp Student Union and Campus Programs Elbridge James; and ARHU Associate Dean Gabriele Strauch.

The President's Commissions on Ethnic Minority Issues and Disability Issues recently recognized members of the campus community for their efforts on behalf of each constituency. In separate award ceremonies, plaques were presented to the following faculty and staff members:

President's Commission on Ethnic Minority Issues presented the:

Non-Instructional Unit Minority Achievement Award to the Office of Student Affairs, College of Arts and Humanities for its development of programs sensitive to the diverse backgrounds of students and its efforts to alert faculty and staff of the need for more award, scholarship and leadership opportunities for minority students.

Non-exempt Staff Minority Award to Delores Saunders, business service specialist, Urban Studies and Planning Program for her commitment to students and her off-campus community efforts.

Exempt Staff Minority Achievement Award to Elbridge James, director, Stamp Student Union and Campus Programs for his active role in the Montgomery County NAACP and his support of ethnic minorities in his department.

Graduate Student Minority Achievement Award to

Marie Ting, a doctoral candidate in higher education and graduate assistant in the Office of the Associate Provost for Equity and Diversity, for her work to encourage significant interaction among students of various cultural and ethnic backgrounds.

Faculty Minority Achievement Award to S. James Gates, professor of physics, for his dedication to advancing the role of minorities in science through graduate student recruitment; and to Ana Patricia Rodriguez, assistant professor, Spanish and Portuguese, for her contributions as a role model and mentor to Latinos and the larger university community.

See AWARDS, page 4

adults. The response is usually "yes and no." Arnett said that these individuals are mature "in some ways, yes and some ways, no."

They demonstrate their beliefs by choosing a later time to say "I do." Arnett said that in 1950, most women were wed at about 20 years old and men, at 22. Now, many women wed at about 25, while men wed at about 27. Arnett said that in place of getting "settled down," they are enrolling at universities. They go back and forth between occupations, academic plans and "love partners," he said.

Attitudes about sexuality contribute to this lack of commitment, he said. In the past, individuals believed that they had to have a husband or wife to have a "regular sex life" and avoid the "social stigma" of premarital sex or free love.

With the invention of the birth control pill in the 1960s, individuals could have intercourse without the worry of conception.

Concerning work, economics are now dependent on information, not manufacturing, Arnett said. Since a college degree is necessary for many occupations now, many people have to put more time into their schooling and put off marriage, which is an adult responsibility.

Arnett, who received his doctorate in developmental psychology from the University of Virginia, will release a book titled "Emerging Adulthood: The Winding Road from the Late Teens through the Early Twenties." The book will address concerns of person-parent involvement, intimacy and religion.

—Jamie Wellington, graduate journalism student

For a related article, see ADULTHOOD, page 4

Library Prepares For, Enthusiastic About Gala

The University of Maryland Libraries will hold their annual gala, "A Night of Literary Feasts," on Thursday, June 12 at R. Lee Hornbake Library. Guests, who are invited to dress as their favorite author or literary character, will be taken on a journey throughout the recently renovated facility that will feature a creative combination of activities that will please every palate. Themed floors, centered on the library's special collections, include:

- A Literary Salon where guests can relax and play surrealist games enjoyed by writers of the Jazz Age.

- The Golden Age of Radio that will feature swing dancing to top 40 tunes of yesteryear. Guests can also help record a radio drama, complete with sound effects.

- Maryland's Glory Days will take guests on a journey back in time and provide them with the opportunity to try their hand at Terrapin Trivia.

The evening will also feature book signings by the following guest authors:

- Nicholas Basbanes, a professional writer for more than 30 years and the author of three books on the topics of books and collecting. His "A Gentle Madness: Bibliophiles, Bibliomanes and the Eternal Passion for Books" was a finalist for the National Book Critics' Circle Award in non-fiction and was named a New York Times Notable Book of the Year.

- Michael Dirda, a columnist and editor for The Washington Post Book World who has written on a variety of bookish matters such as collecting modern firsts, rediscovering neglected novels, the pleasures of ghost stories and the teaching of writing.

- Johnny Holliday, the radio play-by-play voice of the Terrapins. "Johnny Holliday: From Rock to Jock" is a creation of Holliday and his friend and journalist Stephen Moore that traces the career of this pioneer Top 40 DJ from an R&B station in hometown Miami to his current position.

- Stephen Hunter, a writer of movie reviews and the occasionally serious article for The Washington Post. He is also an accomplished author of a dozen mystery novels over the last 20 years and has won the prestigious American Society of Newspaper Editors 1998 Distinguished Writing Award in the criticism category and recently won the 2003 Pulitzer Prize for criticism.

- Gary Williams, head coach of the men's basketball team, who took time off the court to collabo-

See GALA, page 2

dateline maryland

YOUR GUIDE TO UNIVERSITY EVENTS : JUNE 10-18

TUESDAY

June 10

All day, Road Closure Campus Drive, in front of the Health Center. Trigen Cinergy Solutions, the university's energy service provider, has scheduled a partial road closure that began Monday at 5 p.m. and will continue until Friday, June 13 at 12:01 a.m. to make repairs to a leaking underground condensate line. Trigen will close the eastbound lane on Campus Drive and stage flag men to direct traffic onto the westbound lane. A steel plate will be placed to cover trench each day after completion of work. For more information, contact Dave Cosner at 5-7507 or dcosner@umd.edu.

WEDNESDAY

June 11

9:30 a.m.-noon, Build a Course Web Page with Dreamweaver 4404 Computer and Space Science Bldg. The Summer Institute for Instructional Technology will provide free training to faculty and teaching assistants. Course also being held June 12, same time. Register at www.oit.umd.edu/iit/current.html. Up to 20 faculty and teaching assistants will be enrolled in each module. For more information, contact Deborah Mateik at 5-2945, zdeb@umd.edu, or go to www.oit.umd.edu/iit.

noon-1 p.m., Your Heart: Keep It Pumping For The Long Run! Center for Health and Wellbeing, 0121 Campus Recreation Center. In the first of a four-session series on heart health, this session will discuss risk factors for heart disease, along with several practical life strategies that individuals can adopt to maintain a healthy heart. You do not have to be a member of the CRC to attend. For more information call 4-1493 or e-mail treger@health.umd.edu.

2-4 p.m., Introduction to ArcView Workshops (UM Libraries) 2109 McKeldin Library. A hands-on workshop that teaches the basic operations of the ArcView GIS (Geographic Information Systems) software. The workshop is free, but advance registration required at www.lib.umd.edu/

Summer Arts Camps Counselor-in-Training Program

Students ages 13-18 are encouraged to apply to be Counselors-in-Training (CITs) at the Art and Learning Center's Summer Arts Camps. These are volunteer positions; students may earn community service credit for participation. Dates are July 7-Aug. 1, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. The training will be held in B0107 Stamp Student Union.

For more information, contact Alicia Simon at (301) 314-8492 or asimon@union.umd.edu, or visit www.union.umd.edu.

GOV/gisworkshop.html. For more information, contact Government Documents and Maps, 5-9165 or gis@umail.umd.edu.

zdeb@umd.edu, or visit www.oit.umd.edu/iit.

TUESDAY

June 17

4-6 p.m., Open House at the Universities at Shady Grove 9630 Gudelsky Drive, Rockville. For those interested in upper-level undergraduate, or graduate, programs offered by eight University System of Maryland institutions. Admissions and transfer counselors will be available. Complimentary refreshments. For more information, call (301) 738-6023, or go to www.shadygrove.umd.edu/prospectivestudents.

WEDNESDAY

June 18

noon-1 p.m., Your Heart: Keep It Pumping For The Long Run! Center for Health and Wellbeing, 0121 Campus Recreation Center. In the second of a four-session series on heart health, this session will examine how the food you eat dramatically affects your risk of heart disease. CRC membership not required. For more information call 4-1493 or e-mail treger@health.umd.edu.

2-4 p.m., Spatial Analysis with ArcView 3.2 2109 McKeldin Library. A hands-on workshop exploring the analytical operations of ArcView 3.2. The workshop is free, but advanced registration is required at www.lib.umd.edu/GOV/gisworkshop.html. For more information, contact Government Documents and Maps, 5-9165 or gis@umail.umd.edu.

For additional event listings, visit <http://outlook.collegepublisher.com>.

THURSDAY

June 12

9 a.m.-noon, National Instruments Introduction to LabView 3314 Physics. The session will be taught by John Om, our local NI engineer. There will be about 20 laptop computers loaded with LabView and a signal generator box in order to offer hands-on experience. Sessions are free and offered to students, staff and faculty. For more information and to register, visit http://sine.ni.com/apps/we/nievn.ni?action=display_offerings_by_event&event_id=31822&state=MD&site=NIC&node=61110. A second session is offered from 1-4 p.m. For more information, contact Robert Gammon at 5-4791 or rgammon@umd.edu.

5:30-9:30 p.m., A Night of Literary Feasts See article page 1.

SATURDAY

June 14

8-10 p.m., School of Music: National Orchestral Institute Concert See article page 3.

MONDAY

June 16

9 a.m.-3:30 p.m., HTML Skills for Course Web Pages room 4404 Computer and Space Science Bldg. The Summer Institute for Instructional Technology will provide free training to faculty and teaching assistants in the creation of Web pages using HTML. Register at www.oit.umd.edu/iit/current.html. For more information, contact Deborah Mateik at 5-2945 or

Gala: Feast for Many Senses

Continued from page 1

rate with author David Vise to create "Sweet Redemption." The book recounts the trials and tribulations in the resurrection of the Terrapin men's basketball program that eventually led to the 2002 National Championship.

A cocktail reception will be followed by the dedication of a permanent display honoring R. Lee Hornbake, vice president for academic affairs at from 1960-1979. Guests can also enjoy a taste of the "Treasures of the Special Collections" exhibit featuring the best items from the various special collections housed at Hornbake Library.

A special opportunity to attend an exclusive cocktail reception with all the guest authors will be held from 5:30-6:30 p.m. for $250 per person and also includes the Gala Celebration. Or guests may attend a separate cocktail reception from 6-6:45 p.m. for $150 per person which also includes the Gala Celebration.

A portion of all contributions is tax-deductible and directly benefits the Friends of the Libraries in fulfilling its mission to raise awareness and funds to support the University of Maryland Libraries in building, maintaining, preserving and promoting its extensive and rare collections.

For more information, including Hornbake Library service interruptions, visit www.lib.umd.edu/FOL/gala.

Gala-related Hornbake Library Service Interruptions

Patrons using Hornbake Library, including Nonprint Media Services, the Broadcasting Archives and the Maryland Room, should be aware of some interruptions to services that will occur in conjunction with the Friends of the Libraries' gala on June 12.

• On June 11, all study tables, carrels and chairs will be removed from the lobby areas on Floors 2, 3 and 4. Group study space will be available on the ground floor and will remain available during Hornbake Library's open hours on June 11, 12 and 13. Please be aware that there will be some disruptions on the upper floors during furniture moving and the beginning of gala preparations.

• On June 12, Hornbake Library, including Nonprint Media Services, the Broadcasting Archives and the Maryland Room, will close to the public at 4 p.m. to allow for the completion of gala preparations.

• On June 13, all study tables, carrels and chairs will be repositioned in the lobby areas on Floors 2, 3 and 4. Patrons should be aware that there will be additional noisy activities involved in returning services in Hornbake Library to normal. The library will return to its regular hours for all units on June 13 at 8 a.m.

Attendance at the gala is by invitation only. Those who are interested in attending "A Night of Literary Feasts" should visit www.lib.umd.edu/FOL/gala for further information and to RSVP.

Questions concerning the interruption of services in Hornbake Library may be directed to Roy Alvarez at (301) 405-9045.

Outlook

Outlook is the weekly faculty-staff newspaper serving the University of Maryland campus community.

Brodie Remington • Vice President for University Relations

Teresa Flannery • Executive Director, University Communications and Marketing

George Cathcart • Executive Editor

Monette Austin Bailey • Editor

Cynthia Mitchel • Art Director

Robert K. Gardner • Graduate Assistant

Letters to the editor, story suggestions and campus information are welcome. Please submit all material two weeks before the Tuesday of publication.

Send material to Editor, Outlook, 2101 Turner Hall, College Park, MD 20742

Telephone • (301) 405-4629
Fax • (301) 314-9344
E-mail • outlook@accmail.umd.edu
<http://outlook.collegepublisher.com>

calendar guide

Calendar phone numbers listed as 4-xxxx or 5-xxxx stand for the prefix 314 or 405. Calendar information for Outlook is compiled from a combination of inforM's master calendar and submissions to the Outlook office. Submissions are due two weeks prior to the date of publication. To reach the calendar editor, call 405-7615 or send e-mail to outlook@accmail.umd.edu.

Stages

NEWS FROM THE CLARICE SMITH PERFORMING ARTS CENTER

A Summer of Music

It's a musical summer at the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center, featuring the National Orchestral Institute (NOI) and the Kapell International Piano Competition and Festival. NOI, a program of the university's School of Music, selected 114 college-age musicians from nearly 600 applicants who auditioned in 17 cities around the country to participate in the intensive orchestral training program, which began May 30 and runs through June 22.

PHOTO BY STAN BAROUH

Michael Stern conducting the NOI orchestra.

Students work with distinguished conductors and faculty from major American orchestras each week in preparation for public concerts each Saturday in the center's Dekelbom Concert Hall. The program's first concert was June 7 and three events remain, including 8 p.m. concerts on June 14—Andrew Litton conducts a program that includes Strauss' "Also Sprach Zarathustra"; and June 21—Leif Segerstam conducts a program including Mahler's "Symphony no. 6." There will also be a free chamber music recital Friday, June 20 at 7 p.m. in the Gildenhorn Recital Hall.

The Kapell International Piano Competition and Festival celebrates 25 years and its first year in its new home at the center. Preliminary rounds for the 40 contestants begin July 16 and the competition ends July 25 with the final concerto round in which the three finalists perform with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra. In addition to the competition rounds, this year's anniversary festival features activities and performances for the general public, including the Grand Piano Party open house on July 20, a concert on July 22 at 8:30 p.m. with jazz legend and multi-Grammy Award winner McCoy Tyner, who achieved international fame in John Coltrane's quartet, and much more.

For NOI or Kapell ticket information, call (301) 405-ARTS or visit www.claricesmithcenter.umd.edu.

Audience and Artist Alliances

Come early or stick around after performances in the 2003-2004 season at the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center, and you will likely have the opportunity to get up close and personal with talented, engaging artists.

Whether it's a pre-performance discussion with Footworks Percussive Dance Ensemble and Step Afrika! about their fascinating combo of Appalachian and African dance or a post-performance question and answer session with the Turtle Island String Quartet and Grammy Award-winning saxophonist and clarinetist Paquito D'Rivera, you will have a participatory, interactive arts experience that transcends traditional boundaries between audience and artist.

"Our goal is for our visiting artists to make an impact beyond that of an individual performance," says Susie Farr, executive director of the Clarice Smith Performing Arts Center. "We work closely with our artists to develop real relationships with our campus and the greater community."

In addition to pre- and post-performance events this season, academic residencies—like the ones with the National Symphony Orchestra, Ysaye Barnwell of the a capella ensemble Sweet Honey in the Rock, and the Liz Lerman Dance Exchange—offer students the chance to work even more closely and at length with professional artists. For a full 2003-2004 event schedule, including pre- and post-performance events, contact the ticket office at (301) 405-ARTS or visit www.claricesmithcenter.umd.edu.

Notable

Dean Susan C. Schwab has been nominated by President Bush to serve as the first vice president of the Export-Import Bank of the United States and vice chair and chief operating officer of the U.S. government's official export credit agency. Jacques S. Gansler will serve as interim dean of the Maryland School of Public Affairs after Schwab's departure this summer. Gansler, former under secretary of defense for acquisition, technology and logistics, is the first holder of the Roger C. Lipitz Chair in Public Policy and Private Enterprise and also served as director of the Center for Public Policy and Private Enterprise. The university will launch a nationwide search for a new dean in the summer or early fall.

Ellen Diane Williams, Distinguished University Professor affiliated with the Department of Physics (CMPS) and the Institute for Physical Science, has been named a fellow by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in the mathematical and physical sciences category. The Academy's 2003 fellows include four college presidents, three Nobel Prize winners and four Pulitzer Prize winners.

David Poeppel, assistant professor of neuroscience and cognitive science in the Departments of Biology and Linguistics, was awarded the "Berlin Prize" for the upcoming academic year. Conferred by the American Academy in Berlin, the prize is awarded to 10 to 12 "Berlin Fellows" per year and allows them to work in Berlin. Poeppel was also one of about 40 scholars awarded a fellowship by the "Wissenschaftskolleg," the German equivalent of the Institute for Advanced Studies.

The Delmarva Poultry Industry honored Roselina Angel, assistant professor of animal and avian sciences, with its Medal of Achievement at its annual booster banquet in Salisbury. The award recognized Angel's research and education programs directed to the poultry industry and in particular, her efforts to develop economically sound methods to assist the industry in reducing nutrient excretion on its poultry farms.

The Dingman Center for Entrepreneurship at the University of Maryland's Robert H. Smith School of Business has named Charles Heller as chairman of the center's board of advisors. Heller, entrepreneur advisor and formerly general partner of Gabriel Venture Partners in Annapolis, was director of the center for a decade.

Jean Hebel, professor of special education with the College of Education, was recently awarded the 2003 Outstanding Leadership Award by the Council for Exceptional Children (CEC). The honor recognizes a CEC member who contributed to the council's recognition for its commitment, leadership and dedication to service for students with "exceptionalities." Hebel has served the council for more than 50 years.

Jeanne Steffes, coordinator of training for academic support programs in the Department of Resident Life, has been named a diamond honoree by the American College Personnel Association and the Educational Leadership Foundation.

Psychology professor Arie Kruglanski has been named Distinguished University Professor. The distinction is given to faculty who have been recognized nationally and internationally for the importance of their scholarly or creative achievements. In addition, they have brought distinction to the university through their activities.

The Department of Environmental Safety received the Award of Recognition in the Unique or Innovative Category of the National Safety Council's Campus Safety, Health and Environmental Management Association's awards program. The award is for the collaborative work done on the liquid sodium project at Maryland, which integrated a comprehensive health, safety and fire safety review into the design of the 26,000-pound liquid sodium project for Dan Lathrop in physics.

The ICONS Project in the Center for International Development and Conflict Management in the Department of Government and Politics was awarded the Technology as a Tool for Internationalization Award from the American Council on Education (ACE) and the AT&T Foundation. This was the award's first year, and ICONS is one of only six programs to receive it. The award singles out university-based programs that use technology to enhance international learning in undergraduate education. ACE representatives noted the ICONS Web-based negotiation simulation program for its long history and its success in engaging students from around the world in sustained discussions on issues of global concern.

(Significant portions of text for Notables originally produced by Pam Stone for the University Relations Monthly Report.)

Enjoy Maryland Football at a Discounted Price

June 1, 2003

Dear Faculty and Staff,

2002 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl Champions... School record-tying 11-win season in 2002... 2002 Butkus and Bednarik Award Winner for Defensive Player of the Year, EJ Henderson... Eight All-ACC Players... 2001 ACC Champions... 2001 FedEx Orange Bowl!

This is only the beginning and we will not stop until we bring additional ACC and Bowl Championships home to College Park! The last two years our players and staff have accomplished what many Division I football programs will never accomplish. With your support we will accomplish even more.

Faculty and staff are given the opportunity to purchase a season ticket for $144 or $96 depending on desired section. That is a 20 percent discount off the adult season ticket price. For information on the reduced faculty/staff season ticket and single game tickets, call the Terrapin Ticket Office at (301) 314-7070 or visit www.umterps.com.

Show your support and buy season tickets for next season! Ask your friends and family to join you in being part of a premiere Division I football powerhouse. Our fans can truly become our "12th Terp" and home field advantage. Now is the time to guarantee that you will be part of that advantage and rich tradition we have established.

Order now to get the best seats available because seats are going fast! Byrd Stadium is the place to be in 2003! Thank you for your support and I will see you in September.

Sincerely,

Ralph Friedgen
Head Football Coach

For Your Interest

Norman and Florence Brody Public Policy Forum

The program, entitled "After Operation Iraqi Freedom" and sponsored by the School of Public Affairs, will feature individual discussions with Robert Novak, syndicated columnist and CNN commentator; Dimitri Simes, president of the Nixon Center; and Shibley Telhami, Anwar Sadat Professor for Peace and Development here at the university.

The event will take place Sunday, June 15 at 6:30 p.m. (doors close at 6:15) at the Inn and Conference Center Auditorium. It is free, but tickets are required. A dessert reception will be held during intermission.

For tickets and more information, contact Mary Chevalier at (301) 405-3103 or mchevali@deans.umd.edu.

Hosts Sought for Humphrey Fellows

The Hubert H. Humphrey Fellowship Program, housed in the Philip Merrill College of Journalism and funded by the U.S. Department of State, is seeking hosts for a group of international journalism fellows who will be spending the coming academic year at the university. Hosts are asked to pick up the fellows from the airport on Saturday, Aug. 9 and to host them until the late afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 10. This year's group consists of 7 men and 5 women. Currently, hosts are needed for five incoming fellows from: Lithuania (male), Bulgaria (male), Serbia and Montenegro (female), Romania (female) and Benin (male).

For more information, contact Kalyani Chadha at (301) 405-2513 or kchadha@jmail.umd.edu.

New BSOS Dean Ready to Serve

Edward B. Montgomery has accepted the position of dean for the College of Behavioral and Social Sciences, effective July 1. He is currently the senior associate dean for the college and has been a professor in the Department of Economics since 1990. As a labor economist, Montgomery has published papers on a range of topics including pensions, local economic development, Medicare, smoking regulations and savings behavior. While on a leave of absence from the university, he held a variety of research, management and policy positions, including deputy secretary, assistant secretary for policy and chief economist at the U.S. Department of Labor.

Edward B. Montgomery

PHOTO COURTESY OF E. MONTGOMERY

Learn the Sky 2003

Last summer, the UM Observatory held "Learn the Sky Fridays," a popular introduction to amateur astronomy. The program will be held again on Wednesday nights. An advanced class will be offered as well. Details for the two classes and a registration form can be found at www.astro.umd.edu/openhouse/amateur/Learn_the_sky03.html.

Classes will begin June 18 and run through July 23. The beginner class is from 6:30 to 8:15 p.m. and the advanced class is from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. Topics for each evening are listed on the Web site.

For more information, contact

Elizabeth Warner at (301) 405-6555 or warnerem@astro.umd.edu, or visit www.astro.umd.edu/openhouse/.

Annual Letter to Teaching Faculty

The annual letter to instructional faculty is now available at www.umd.edu/faculty/teach/annual.doc. It describes components of a syllabus and instructional policies such as academic integrity, accommodations for students with disabilities, confidentiality in posting grades, strictures on reproductions of copyrighted materials and handling scheduling conflicts between exams and religious observances.

For more information, contact Ellin K. Scholnick at (301) 405-4252 or escholn@umd.edu.

Scholarships Available for Adult Women

Scholarship funds for adult women are available through the Returning Students Program. Funds from the Charlotte W. Newcombe Foundation provide 10 to 12 scholarships, ranging from approximately $400 to $700. To qualify, women must meet the following criteria by the application deadline of Friday, July 11:

1. Be 25 years or older
2. Admitted as full- or part-time undergraduate student at UMCP
3. Have completed at least half the credits necessary for the undergraduate degree (60 credits).

For more information, contact Beverly Greenfeig at (301) 314-7693 or bg16@umail.umd.edu.

Summer Barbecues at the Dairy and Rudy's Café

Stop by Rudy's Café in Van Munching Hall or the Dairy in Turner Hall for this year's summer barbecues.

- Rudy's Café, every Tuesday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- The Dairy, every Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Select from summer favorites including flame-grilled hamburgers, hot dogs, chicken, veggie burgers and a choice of sides. Weekly specials include T-bone steaks and barbecue ribs.

Please note: In case of rain or Code Red air quality, there will be no grilling outside.

For more information, contact Shirlene Chase at (301) 314-9573 or schase@dining.umd.edu, or visit www.dining.umd.edu.

Adulthood: Comes Later

Continued from page 1

Learning to Grow an Adult

What factors influence the development of a child into an adult? Faculty in the university's Department of Human Development have been investigating this issue for many years, and with the help of a NIH-funded Graduate Training Program in Social Development, doctoral students will get a chance to work on this complex question as well.

Specific research topics will include the origins of empathy, the development of concepts of fairness, children's friendships and peer relationships, adolescent self-perceptions, children's and adolescents' motivation to learn in schools, and civic engagement.

Melanie Killen is the training program's director and a professor in the College of Education's Department of Human Development. She says the new program will be strongly mentor-based and is designed to give doctoral students the tools they need to become faculty in institutions of higher education or investigators in dedicated research institutions.

One major goal for those students will be to learn how to use their research for social good. "The key," says Killen, "is to translate the research into action through school partnerships, workshops for teachers, consulting and other endeavors."

The five-year, $863,000 training grant comes from the National Institute of Child and Human Development (NICHD) at NIH. Of the 77 grant applications submitted last year, the Maryland proposal was the only one funded during a January 2003, NICHD council meeting. The Maryland program—which officially got underway on May 1 with three students—is only one of 12 such training programs funded by the Child Development and Behavior Branch of the NICHD in the United States.

Awards: Pres. Commissions Honor Peers

Continued from page 1

President's Commission on Disability Issues presented the:

Staff Disability Achievement Award to Laurence Donnelly, assistant director, South Campus Dining Hall, for his work with employees from the Association of Retarded Persons; and to Stacey Brown, program director, Career Center, for her efforts to learn about and implement employment programs of interest to students with disabilities.

Student Disability Achievement Award to Partamin Farzad Nawabi, doctoral candidate, Education Counseling and Personnel; and graduate assistant, Office of Human Relations Programs, for overcoming psychological disabilities and working to help others with the same challenges.

John W. King Disability Achievement Award to Ann Masnik, librarian and diversity coordinator, for overcoming a brain tumor that challenged her abilities and continuing to advocate for the all persons on campus with disabilities.

Stacey Brown

Ann Masnik

Partamin Farzad Nawabi

Laurence Donnelly

PHOTOS BY CYNTHIA MITCHEL